

11

a plurality of longitudinal recesses formed on the exterior surface of the tip along the length of the tip, the recesses being positioned circumferentially about the closed inner cavity so that a cross-section of the tip in a direction orthogonal to the longitudinal direction passes 5 through the closed inner cavity and the plurality of recesses.

* * * * *

12